THE SENATE DISPOSES OF MORE APPROPRIATION BILLS.

The Venable-Langston Case in the House—A Republican Opposes the Reading of a Republican—The G. O. P. Cannot Afford to Vote in a Bolter from the Republican Ticket.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Mr. Blair addressed the Senate to-day on the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution conferring representation on the District of Columbia in the two houses of Congress and in the electoral college.

At the close of Mr. Blair's speech the Senate proceeded to the consideration, for one hour, of bills on the calendar unobjectioned to. The following among others, was passed:

Senate bill appropriating $30,000 for a public monument on a reservation in Washington to the memory of John Ericson, the inventor and constructor of the Monitor.

The Senate also passed the following bills: Senate bill appropriating $20,000 for the purchase of certain manuscript papers and correspondence of Thomas Jefferson, now in possession of the descendants.

After discussing a western land court bill the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—In the House this morning after the reading of the Journal, Mr. Haugen demanded the regular order, being the Lagston-Venable election case, but Mr. Payson interposed with the conference report on the land grant forfeiture bill.

Mr. Haugen then called up the election case, against which Mr. O'Ferrall raised the question of consideration.

During the roll call nearly all the Democratic members deserted the chamber. The result of the vote was officially announced, yeas 136, nays 15; the clerk noting a quorum.

Mr. Haugen then took the floor and proceeded with an argument of the case, favoring the seating of Langston.

Mr. Cheadle, of Indiana, (Republican) opposed the majority resolution and declared that the Republicans of the House could not afford to vote Venable out and Langston in. The fourth district of Virginia was reliably Republican, not because of the popularity of Mr. Cleveland or the unpopularity of Mr. Harrison, but because of Republican division.

It was a perfectly plain and natural statement of fact that the Republican party in that district had been beaten solely because of the reason of irreconcilable differences in the Republican party. It had been a race division with all that such a division could imply in the South. The Republicans had been fairly beaten and it was beneath the dignity of the Republican party to revise the figures of an election which had been lost to it by thousands of voters. Speaking politically, it would be suicidal for the Republican party to seat a man who had led a bolt against the regular Republican candidate.

He then proceeded to eulogize Senator Mahone, and to praise his ability in building up the Republican party in Virginia, and predicted that if his leadership followed, Virginia, in a few years would be as reliably Republican as Vermont. Referring to the case under consideration, he said that if there was little law and less evidence to sustain the contest, there was still less Republicanism. He was confident that there never could be a strong and effective Republican party in the South until there were enough white men in it to make it strong and effective. Senator Mahone and the white men of Virginia had made the Republican party strong in that State and had secured the election of six Republicans to Congress. The contestant, flying in the face of existing conditions, had raised the race issue, and the result had been that Virginia had now only two Republican representatives. Ignorance could not dominate and overrule intelligence. The Republican party in the South could not be built up on negro votes alone.

He was not his colleague's keeper, but speaking for himself he said that he could not under his oath, and with his knowledge of the case vote to seat the contestant, and he hoped for the good name of the House and for the good name of the great party to which he belonged, that there would be enough Republicans voting with him to retain Venable in his seat.

When Mr. Cheadle concluded he was greeted with applause by the Democrats. The case then went over until to-morrow. Mr. Haugen stating that he would call the previous question at two o'clock to-morrow.

A CARD.

DEAR FRIENDS OF EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH:

In the recent burning of the Rutherford College in Burke Co., N. C., all my splendid, select library, worth over $5,000 was reduced to ashes. I feel that I CANNOT LIVE without books.

Will kind friends send me such volumes of books as they can spare, either NEW or OLD, that I may commence another library?

Send them to me at Connelly Springs by express, at my expense, or to "Rutherford College, Burke Co., N. C.," by mail.

Be sure in both cases, to address them to "Dr. R. L. Abernethy," as when simply addressed "Rutherford College," they sometimes miscarry.

Friends, do please help me.

R. L. ABERNETHY.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 17.—One hundred negroes were poisoned Sunday last, near Collierine, Dallas county. Two of them died that day, and six others died yesterday. The latest news from the neighborhood is to the effect that many others are dangerously ill, and their death is hourly expected. A big revival had been going on for a week at a negro church near Collierine, and it was decided to give a dinner on Sunday to all who attended. One course of the dinner consisted of barbecued pork. Physicians examined the pork and found traces of arsenic in large quantities in it. An investigation is being made by the coroner, but so far he has not learned who placed the poison in the pork.

George W. Campbell Attracts the Attention of Miss Helen Dodd by His Skillful Horsemanship—The Young Lady Crosses the Ocean and Marries Him—Tom Dixon Performs the Ceremony.

(New York Star.)

The marriage of George W. Campbell, a wealthy cowboy, to Miss Helen Dodd, daughter of Sir Thomas Dodd, which took place in this city last evening, was the culmination of a romantic courtship which began in Liverpool, where Campbell was performing with a Wild West show.

Campbell came to this city from Chicago on Saturday, and registered at the Grand Central Hotel. He came on for the purpose of meeting his intended bride, who was then speeding over the ocean on the City of Rome. The Westerner is the son of James H. Campbell, the millionaire cattleman, and head of the "James H. Campbell Company" of Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha livestock dealers. He now occupies the position of chief salesman of the company.

Campbell is now twenty-five years old. When only fifteen years of age he ran away from home and went to Texas, where he became a cowboy. Cattle buyers in the employ of his father, who saw him at intervals in Texas, tried to persuade him to return home, but five years elapsed before he did so. Then he entered the employ of his father's firm in Chicago.

Three years ago the firm sent him to England to manage some important sale of cattle. Young Campbell crossed the Atlantic and, after settling the firm's affairs, he found himself in Liverpool with nothing to do for two or three weeks.

At that time Mexican Joe's Wild West Show was in camp near Liverpool, and for the amusement Campbell went out to see it. He found among the cowboy employees several of his former companions on the plains.

By their invitation he spent a week in the camp, and in a spirit of fun, took part in the daily exhibitions. An expert rider, possessing a good face and physique, he was an object of interest to all who saw him.

One day during a performance he picked a silver coin out of the mud by reaching down from the back of his horse while going at full speed. Every one in the audience applauded, but none so vigorously as a young girl, who, with her father, occupied one of the boxes.

While waving her handkerchief to the rider, a gust of wind snatched it from her hand and carried it out to the center of the track. Campbell was coming down the roadway on the full run and saw the bit of lace fall. Without checking his horse, he bent low in the saddle and as he swept by picked it up. He was cheered to the echo as he turned his pony and, riding up to the box, returned the handkerchief to its fair owner.

Introductions followed through the medium of a mutual friend. The occupants of the box proved to be Sir Thomas Dodd, of West Derby, near Liverpool, and his eighteen-year-old daughter, Helen.

Between the young people it was a case of love at first sight, and was only a short time before the young folks were engaged. When the parents of both heard of it, objections were raised.

It was finally decided that Campbell should return to this country, and if in the course of a year or so their love remained unchanged, no further objection would be raised. At the outset Campbell had satisfied Sir Thomas as to his ability to take care of a wife, so far as financial and social conditions were concerned.

Campbell returned to Chicago, where he has been ever since until his arrival in this city Saturday. His betrothed decided that as he could not get away from business at this season of the year, she would come to America, and get married here.

Her father's advanced age prevented his accompanying her, so she came under the escort of Captain John R. Denar, Superintendent of the Guion Line. She arrived on the City of Rome yesterday, and was met on the pier by her lover, who escorted her to apartments he had secured for her in the Grand Central Hotel. Miss Helen Dodd is a beautiful brunette, of medium stature.

Last evening at 9 o'clock the wedding took place in Association Hall, the present meeting place of the members of the Twenty-third Street Baptist church. The Rev. Dr. Dixon performed the ceremony in the presence of about fifty people—relatives and friends of the groom.

Rev. Dr. Lacy went to hear Sam Jones while the latter preached in Norfolk. At first he sat way back in the tabernacle, but was so attracted by Mr. Jones, he finally went upon the platform. He says Jones' last sermon was the most powerful sermon he ever heard. Dr. Lacy was the only Presbyterian preacher in Norfolk that went to hear the wonderful Sam.

There was a bee in the rose, and Mr. McDonald was not long in finding out when the hot feet of the bee came in contact with his skin. Friend McDonald has a blooming nose without much cost.

WINSTON'S NEWSY NOTES.

The Roanoke and Southern Railroad--The Graded Schools--Politics and Base-Ball.

(Special Cor. State Chronicle.)

WINSTON, N. C., Sept. 17.—It has been learned from different parties that an effort will be made to extend the Roanoke and Southern road beyond Roanoke, Va. to Salem, seven miles distant. If this is so it will open up another good field to the road. President A. M. Bowman, of the Salem Development Company, declares that he has letters from the North Carolina and Virginia Construction Company declaring that it is their intention to push the line on to Salem, and that the present contract with Roanoke will not prevent them from so doing.

The difficulty between the Danville and New River road and the Roanoke and Southern over the treatment of the former by the latter which crosses it at Martinsville, Va., is said to have been amicably adjusted. In their grading the R. & S. hands could not help blasting rock &c. that would fall on the D. & N. line.

Over a hundred pupils have been added to the graded school since its opening Monday. The number of pupils has so increased that a new room is being fitted up, and Miss Laura Chandler, one of the old teachers, been asked to take temporary charge of the classes.

Hons. F. M. Simmons and Clement Manly of New Bern are in the city today on business.

Mr. W. M. Carter, a popular young man who has been here for the past year buying tobacco for Messrs. W. Duke, Sons & Co., of Durham, has left here for Wilson, where he will handle some of the down eastern leaf the coming fall and winter. He is an excellent young man and understands the business thoroughly.

Miss Katherine Evans, the instructor in vocal music at the Salem Female College, arrived in the city yesterday, after a summer in Paris where she has been pursuing her studies under the famous Viardot Garcia. There are now about 325 pupils enrolled in the college.

The Chronicle's business manager, Mr. D. H. Browder, is in our city, feeling the pulse of our people with respect to their appreciation of the space daily given to our city by your excellent paper. Although more talent and time could have made that space more attractive, yet it has been open, ever-ready to publish to the world every item concerning her business development, her grand future and her new happenings, and that kindness to our Twin-City no doubt you will find is appreciated by our people.

Yesterday evening late a telegram came, announcing that the Roanoke full professional baseball team would arrive in our city to-day to play the Winston Invincibles. It is feared by our people that our team has weakened to some extent since it played that team on its own grounds, as Lanier and Bennett, two of our strongest men, are gone; but we are hopeful of victory, as we can put some good men in their places. North Carolina has never seen before such ball as is being played in Winston this year. Probably their seeing so little is one cause of their non-appreciation of the game. Winston has certainly won the championship of the South this year for North Carolina.

The printers of Winston-Salem last night completed the organization of their Relief Association by the election of L. N. Keith as President, George E. Vaughan as Vice-President, and R. E. Carmichael as Secretary. It is for the benefit of indigent printers.

TO HOLD THEIR COTTON.

The Project is Certainly Under Negotiation.

It is stated that the Farmers' Alliance has made arrangements with English capitalists to advance $32 a bale on 2,000,000 bales of American cotton to be stored in the warehouses of the South for a period of one year, allowing the farmer to dispose of the cotton any time during the year should the price advance to his satisfaction. The European syndicate which advances this money on the cotton will charge 4 per cent. per annum in their interest, and will be fully secured, on which the advance is made. These arrangements mean that the farmers will have the use of $64,000,000 and at the same time keep 2,000,000 bales of cotton out of the market.

This announcement has caused deep interest. The Atlanta Constitution caused a leading Allianceman in Montgomery to be interviewed about the project. He refused to say any thing for publication, but it is ascertained that such a plan is under negotiation. We hope that it will be successful and wait the conclusion of the negotiations with deep interest.

Harnett is Rich in Timber.

(Sanford Express.)

The people of Lillington had a meeting this week to take into consideration the extension of the Durham & Lynchburg railroad from Durham through Harnett county on to Fayetteville. A committee was appointed to write up the resources of Harnett county, which is rich in pine timber.

The First of the Season.

Mr. J. Schwartz yesterday paraded upon the streets ten of the finest beef cattle ever brought to this market. These cattle will be butchered as the demands of the market require, and will be served to his customers at from 6, 8, 10 to 12 cents per pound at his establishment on Fayetteville street, opposite Tucker's. Mr. Schwartz has also a fine lot of Southdown mutton which he will serve at from 8 to 12 cents per pound. Give him a call.

MR. CHAS. M. BUSBEE.

A DISTINGUISHED SON OF RALEIGH ABROAD.

He is the Head of the Grand Beneficent Order in the World--Elected Grand Sire of L. O. O. F.--A Grand Reception and Banquet to be Given Him in Raleigh on Sept. 30th.

Some days ago Mr. Chas. M. Busbee left here for Topeka, Kansas, to attend the Sovereign Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. Yesterday the following telegram was received here:

"C. B. EDWARDS, Raleigh, N. C.

Hail Carolina! Chas. M. Busbee has been elected Grand Sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge I. O. O. F., unanimously. Clint Campbell, of Canada, is elected Deputy Grand Sire."

The honor conferred upon Mr. Busbee by this election, is one of the greatest an American citizen can wear.

The Order, of which he is now the supreme head, is the greatest beneficent organization in all the world, and it is constantly growing.

The total annual revenue of the Order will approximate $7,000,000, and of this amount, perhaps $3,000,000 is expended for the relief of sick and needy members.

Mr. Busbee is 45 years of age. He was born in Raleigh and his life has been spent here.

When but 17 years of age he entered the Confederate army. He was a prisoner at Fort Delaware and was one of those unfortunate who were imprisoned at Morris Island and fed on putrid meat and moldy bread. He was exchanged from there, and after he returned home from the war, he held the office of county clerk for two years.

After that he began the practice of law and has been quite successful and very prominent in that profession.

He has represented Wake county in the State Legislature, and was a leader among his colleagues there.

He has, for a long time, been an active member of L. O. O. F. and two years ago he was elected Deputy Grand Sire of the Order at Los Angeles, Cal.

From that office he ascends to the head of the great Order, reflecting great honor upon himself and upon his native State.

Mr. Busbee will return to the city within the next two weeks, and on September 30th a magnificent ovation and banquet will be tendered Raleigh's distinguished son by his friends, the citizens and the members of the Order here. It will be such a reception as Raleigh has not given a man since LaFayette passed through the town.

A PRETTY MARRIAGE.

Mr. Edmund J. Lilly, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth MacRae Married in Fayetteville.

There was a beautiful wedding in St. John's church, Fayetteville, Wednesday morning, September 17th, 1890, at 8:20 o'clock.

Mr. Edmund J. Lilly, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth MacRae, daughter of Judge James C. MacRae, were married by Rev. Thos. Atkinson.

In the church were rich and lovely decorations of palms, ferns and pink roses.

The marriage arrangement was very pretty. The bridal party stopped in the vestibule and the wedding march from Lohengrin announced that they were entering. Mr. Scott presided at the organ.

Just as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, the groom, with his best man, Dr. H. W. Lilly, approached the chancel from the robing room. They stood facing each other at the altar and, surrounded by the attendants, were made husband and wife.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary MacRae, Miss Margaret Hinsdale, Miss Lily Rose and Miss Hester Calvert. The gentlemen ushers and attendants were Messrs. J. H. McRae, Henry Marsh, Douglass Haigh and Ed. Kyle.

After the ceremony had been impressively performed the party retired from the church in the following order:

Mr. and Mrs. Lilly, the bridal couple; Mr. Henry Marsh and Miss Mary MacRae; Mr. S. H. MacRae and Miss Lily Rose; Mr. Douglass Haigh and Miss Margaret Hinsdale; Mr. Ed. Kyle and Miss Hester Calvert; Judge MacRae and Dr. H. W. Lilly. Mendelssohn's wedding march pealed from the organ as the party was retiring.

The ribbons were held by four very young gentlemen in knickerbockers—Messrs. Jas. C. MacRae, Jr., Charlie McNeill, Frank Slocum and Philip Haigh.

The bride's costume was a traveling suit of English brown check, tailor made, elegantly braided, and a stylish little brown turban. She carried a large bouquet of Catherine-Mermet roses.

The costumes of the bridesmaids were of white Honnetta cloth, tailor made, laced down the back, front V necks, with sleeves reaching just below the elbows. They wore long white gloves and large Gainsborough leghorn hats trimmed with wreaths of white chrysanthemums, and carried bunches of maiden hair fern.

On the evening before the marriage there was a large informal gathering of family connections on both sides at the residence of Judge MacRae.

After the ceremony on Wednesday morning the couple left for an extended tour.

THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

A Unique and Taking Plan to Secure Funds.

At a meeting yesterday, at the office of the secretary of the State Fair, steps were taken to increase the fund for the Soldiers' Home. The plan adopted insures the co-operation of all the newspapers in the State. Each newspaper will designate two canvassers—a gentleman and lady—for each township of its county, and these canvassers will receive money for "guesses" for valuable prizes, to be awarded at the State Fair. There will be 20,000 guesses, and each guess will cost ten cents. The names and numbers of the guesses will be sent to Raleigh to the secretary of a ladies' committee, and the prizes will be awarded during the Fair to the fortunate guessers.

Mrs. Armistead Jones was appointed secretary and treasurer, and an executive committee, composed of Mrs. Garland Jones, Miss Olivia Cowper and Miss Daisy Denson was also appointed. This plan will afford the people of all North Carolina a special opportunity to aid that most worthy object—the Soldiers' Home, and at the same time to perhaps secure one of the many valuable prizes to be given.
